Man indicted for threatening deputy's life

From staff reports

A Lawrenceburg man who police say threatened a deputy's life and "used his vehicle as a weapon" was indicted Oct. 2 by an Anderson County Grand Jury.

Whetzel

Joseph M. Whetzel, 26, of 2000 Waddy Road was indicted on felony counts of terroristic threatening, wanton endangerment, evading police and criminal mischief following an incident in March.

According to court documents, Whetzel threatened Anderson County Sheriff's Deputy Tony Likens. In his report, Likens wrote that Whetzel told him he would "judge him like God," and that "Deputy Likens wouldn't live if he took him anywhere."

The incident began during a traffic stop, during which Likens said Whetzel "used his vehicle as a weapon" while Likens was standing outside of his cruiser.

Likens said that Whetzel then drove toward another deputy's vehicle, forcing him to drive backward off the road and strike a stump.

A chase ensued, Likens said, which ended with Whetzel resisting arrest and kicking the door of a deputy's cruiser, causing damage.

Whetzel is scheduled to appear at 9 a.m. Nov. 7 in Anderson Circuit Court.

Deputy: Woman offered cash to get out of DUI ticket

Johnson faces bribery, drunk driving charges

From staff reports

A Lawrenceburg woman charged with DUI and attempting to bribe a police officer was scheduled for a pre-trial conference today (Wednesday) in Anderson District Court.

Malory R. Johnson, 24, of 121 Chautauqua St. allegedly offered $100 to Anderson County Sheriff's Deputy Alan Robinson "to let her go" after he determined she had been drinking and driving, according to court documents.

The deputy was called to assist a stranded motor vehicle on Mill Creek Pike. When he arrived, Robinson said Johnson told him that her vehicle had blown a tire.

In his complaint, Robinson said he could smell alcohol on Johnson's breath and asked her if she had been drinking.

Johnson said she had been drinking about two hours earlier because she had just broken up with her boyfriend of five years, according to his complaint.

Robinson wrote that Johnson failed tests that including walking, turning and standing on one leg, along with a breath test that determined she had alcohol on her breath, according to his report.

Johnson was later released on her own recognizance.

Trio charged with tying up child in court Tuesday

Disposition hearing set for grandmother, parents

From staff reports

The three people charged with tying up a 3-year-old for up to 16 hours a day are scheduled to appear Tuesday, Oct. 16 in Anderson Circuit Court.

Grandmother Carolyn Case, mother Rebecca Medley and stepfather Herbert Medley are scheduled to appear in front of Circuit Court Judge Charles Hickman for a disposition hearing at 9 a.m.

All three have already pleaded not guilty.

Case and Rebecca Medley have been released from jail on their own recognizance after being charged with first-degree criminal child abuse of a person under the age of 12.

Herbert Medley is facing the same charge and was released from jail after posting $1,000 on a $10,000 bond.

The charge against them stems from a state police investigation during which the women reportedly told troopers that the 3-year-old was tied to her bed Blamshift lead singer Jenny Mann performs in the band's music video at the T.B. Ripy House.

Rock n' roll band films music video at Ripy house

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

The T.B. Ripy house on Main Street rocked with a different sound than creaking floorboards this weekend.

In a small drawing room of the Lawrenceburg mansion, Jenny Mann — the lead singer of the band Blamshift — debated grabbing her prescription ear plugs before running through another take for their music video.

"For the beauty of the shot, I'll go deaf," Mann joked as she took her place in front of a bedazzled microphone stand.

Nashville music producer and director Jon King had been searching for an old house with Victorian character for the band's music video "Secrets," the title track for an upcoming 2013 album.

After getting into contact with the Kentucky Film Office and exploring the possibility of shooting in an old house in Louisville, King took the film office's suggestion to check out the Ripy mansion.

The former residence, owned by descendants of bourbon baron T. B. Ripy, was the perfect location for "a fun take on the horror movie" themed music video.

"It's kind of in that perfect state of decay," King said of the Ripy house.

George Geoghegan, one of the owners of the T.B. Ripy house, said hosting a rock band could lead to publicity for the mansion, currently in need of numerous repairs.

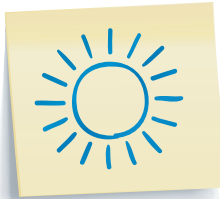

"Our reason for doing that was that we thought we could use as much publicity concerning the house as possible," Geoghegan

Magistrates OK engineer contract for recycling building

By Ben Carlson
News staff

The Anderson County Fiscal Court approved a $19,000 engineering contract with a local firm Cann-Tech to help design and oversee construction of a new recycling facility at the county highway facility. The building will part of the county's overall recycling plan, which will include an eventual end to curbside pick-up and bins located in various areas of the city and county. The building is expected to cost between $200,000 and $300,000, and will house a compactor, cardboard bailer and other equipment the county plans to purchase with a $125,000 solid waste grant from the state.

Magistrate David Montgomery was the only magistrate to vote against approval of the engineering study, saying the county has other, more pressing infrastructure needs.

Montgomery said he is in favor of the county's efforts to enhance and expand recycling, but said the cost of the building continues to grow at a time when money might be better spent on other needs.

Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway said he understands that thinking, and pointed out that other needs include a new ambulance building and the razing and rebuilding of the white block building directly behind Conway's office that is beyond repair.

Magistrate David Ruggles, who chairs the fiscal court's solid waste committee, said the building will eventually pay for itself by reducing labor costs, and that it is a cornerstone to the work already done by the county to enhance recycling.

Conway said the beefed-up recycling effort would not have been necessary if magistrates had favored his idea earlier this year to enact mandatory trash and recycling pickup through the county's trash hauler.

"The support of the court wasn't there," he said.

Ruggles agreed with Conway, saying that if the court doesn't want to move forward with recycling, he'd be just as satisfied to have mandatory pickup and avoid any further expenses.

"That would be fine with me," Ruggles said.

Magistrates Kenny Barnett and Buddy Sims were absent from the meeting.

Man to be sentenced for third DUI charge

Trooper: vehicle contained open can of beer, moonshine

From staff reports

A Versailles man is scheduled for sentencing Tuesday on charges that include his third DUI in the past five years and fleeing from police.

Jason D. Nelson of 324 Ridgewood Dr. pleaded guilty to driving under the influence, first-degree evading police and other charges stemming from a traffic stop late last year on Keaton Lane.

The Commonwealth Attorney's office has recommended five years of supervised diversion, including that Nelson will not be allowed to obtain a driver's license for three years, according to documents on file in Anderson Circuit Court.

Nelson could, however, get a hardship license and ignition lock on a vehicle after two years, documents say.

A Kentucky State Trooper charged Nelson after a person in the vehicle he was driving was seen throwing a beer can from the passenger side window, according to a report on file in Anderson Circuit Court.

The trooper reported that Nelson's car was "driving all over the roadway," and that when he attempted to stop him, Nelson "failed to do so."

The trooper reported ordering Nelson and another passenger in the vehicle to get on the ground and handcuffed them.

Inside the vehicle, the trooper reported finding an open can of beer along with moonshine.

PROJECT RESTORATION HOLDS PRAYER WALK

More than 100 people from Anderson and Franklin counties participated in Project Restoration's prayer walk on Oct. 6. Participants began at the Anderson County High School and prayed over the city, following the parade route to the courthouse and finally joining on the Lawrenceburg Green for a worship service. burg was indicted on a felony count of making false statements to obtain unemployment benefits and four counts of criminal possession of a forged instrument.

The forged instrument indictment stems from a period from March 14 through April 4 when he allegedly withdrew money from a bank by using another person's checking account.

The unemployment benefits allegation dates back to early 2008 when he allegedly made false statements to receive $100 or more.

Mary A. Campbell, 42, of 225 Redman Drive, Frankfort was indicted on a felony count of first-degree fleeing or evading police, DUI and a host of traffic violations.

The indictment alleges that Campbell fled from police on foot following a motor vehicle accident in May, and that she failed to render aid to another person involved in the accident.

She was also indicted for failure to maintain insurance, driving on a suspended license, failure to notify the state of an address change, no insurance and no registration.

David Crutcher, 53, of 2078 Graefenburg Road, Lawrenceburg was indicted on eight felony counts of wanton endangerment, leaving the scene of an accident and second-offense DUI.

The indictment stems from a traffic accident in June when he allegedly endangered the lives of eight different people.

from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. each day. They also acknowledged that the child was also tied to the bed for a two-hour nap, and spent an additional four hours tied up for discipline, according to the documents. She was also tied up to a booster seat in a kitchen chair for up to an hour a day for discipline.

The child was tied up with a curtain sash by lacing it through the arm holes in her shirt and behind her back.

It was then fastened to the bed using a large horse collar safety pin, according to court documents. The sash was also used to tie her to a kitchen chair.

Case, the grandmother, told investigating troopers with the Kentucky State Police that the girl "spent more time tied up than free," according to documents.

Case also told investigators that she was tied up because she was "getting out of bed and getting into things," and that she was trying to "get out of the residence when everyone was asleep."

Case added that the girl's mother,

Rebecca Medley, "would tie [the girl] up very tightly and that [her] movement was very impaired and she was not able to escape."

The girl was being tied up from June 1 through Aug. 3, when a child protective services worker alerted the state police.

Herbert Medley told police he knew about the girl being tied up but "felt he could not tell anyone because Case had threatened to kick them out of the residence."

He said that Case started the practice and showed his wife how to do it.

Bobbi J. Howell, 53, of 2800 Alumni, apartment 415, Lexington was indicted for first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance and a misdemeanor count of possession of a controlled substance.

The indictments stem from an incident in January.

Jimmy D. Tudor of 101 Cardinal Lane, Wilmore was indicted on three counts of criminal possession of a forged instrument.

was finally coming home from his third tour of duty.

The Elliott family reunion came earlier than expected, however.

Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg Principal Steve Carmichael staged a fake assembly last Wednesday morning with this plot: a photographer from The Anderson News was coming in to take a photo for the Academy's upcoming special section (note: the newspaper's staff writer knew of Carmichael's true intent for the assembly).

The real story: Carmichael would make a remark about something "missing" from the photo, and Colby would appear on cue in the Academy's gym to surprise his family.

Once Carmichael assembled the Academy's faculty and staff, he mentioned something or someone was "missing" from the photo, as planned.

In walked Colby, and the school erupted in cheers and applause. Ashley's hands flew up to cover her face. Colby's daughter Brette, a Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg student, ran across the gym to tackle her dad in a hug.

Photos by Meaghan Downs

Brette Elliott, a student at Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg, runs to hug her dad Staff Sgt. Colby Elliott after he surprised his family by coming home early.

More than a few Academy staff and friends of the Elliotts wiped tears from their eyes.

"When Colby walked into the gym, I have never been so shocked in my life," Ashley said via e-mail, adding that everyone from her best friend to fellow teachers were in on the big homecoming surprise.

"I can't even put into words what I felt. It was a flood of emotions ... happiness, excitement and relief that he was home safe and this deployment was finally over and I felt a love from a group of people that was overwhelming.

"To know that everyone in the school dropped what they were doing to help make this day special for our family was something that we will never forget."

The family's plans now that Colby is back? This weekend Colby got to play video games with his son Gabe and attended a corn hole tournament at the Academy with his daughter Brette, Ashley said.

"Our plans are simple ... all we want is to be a family again," Ashley said. "It's the little things that we take for granted that you figure out mean the most during deployments."

Music by David Perkins and Rick Hanks will be from 5:30-7:30 p.m.

Proceeds to benefit the seniors of Anderson County.

Job fair scheduled Oct. 17 for veterans

From staff reports

Job seekers who are transitioning personnel, veterans, members of the National Guard, reservists and their dependents will have an opportunity to meet nearly 30 employers at an Oct. 17 job fair, according to a news release.

The event is scheduled from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. at the Northeast Christian Church, 990 Star Shoot Parkway, Lexington. The free event is sponsored by the Kentucky Office of Employment and Training (OET).

"Our emphasis for this job fair will be on military veteran job seekers and companies looking to hire them. This is a great opportunity for job seekers and employers to connect in person and make multiple contacts in a short time period," said Mike Noble, local veterans employment representative OET.

Attendees should be prepared for interviews, bring proof of military service such as a DD214, VA or military ID card and a current resume.

For more information about the event or employers wanting to participate, contact Mike Noble at Michael.Noble@kygov.org or Bruce Quire at Bruce.Quire@kygov.org.

GRILL OFF RAISES FUNDS FOR CLINIC

The first Grillmaster Grill Off was held in the county park Sept. 22, and raised more than $800 for the Anderson County Community Medical Clinic, Inc. According to event organizers, "this is a great accomplishment due to all the hard work by the fundraising committee, entertainers, grillers, judges, as well as citizens who attended, donated and participated in the silent auction and raffles."

EDITORIAL

One reason criminals getting more brazen

Are you afraid of being arrested? Most people don't hesitate and respond with a resounding "yes."

Then there are those who seemingly have little fear of handcuffs, the back seats of police cars and the public shame and potential financial ruin wrought by a trip to the jailhouse.

Since the inception of what would be considered the modern age of criminal justice, those two groups have been solidly defined, with the latter comprising a remarkably small percentage of the population.

One needs only look at recidivism rates to learn that laws are typically broken by the few who do so at the expense of the many. It's that expense, and a rotten economy, that had lawmakers early this year eager to enact House Bill 463 — a game effort on their part to trim nearly half a billion dollars in incarceration costs over the next decade by being more selective on who stays locked up, and why.

Even the most well intended efforts, though, often come laced with unintended consequences, and HB 463 is no exception. While that bill certainly didn't make law-abiding citizens suddenly eager to commit crimes, it appears to have reduced even more the fear-factor among recalcitrants who had only marginal fear to begin with.

One needs only look at recidivism rates to learn that laws are typically broken by the few who do so at the expense of the many.

Admittedly anecdotal examples of this include the recent arrest of two men on methamphetamine manufacturing charges, and two women charged with first-degree child abuse of a 3-year-old girl.

Both men have been charged with making meth before, including Jeffrey Goodlett, whose arrest last month marked the third time he's been charged with that particular crime.

Goodlett, according to court documents, had already entered a guilty plea and was awaiting sentencing when he was busted a third time at a residence on Mill Creek Pike.

Goodlett's alleged actions certainly aren't violent, but do wreak a tremendous amount of havoc not only on him but on those who succumb to the temptation and eventual damnation that methamphetamine inevitably lords over its users.

The two women, who according to police documents not only admitted tying up the 3-year-old for up to 16 hours but showed officers how it was done, were charged but soon released on their own recognizance despite what any rational person would consider allegations of a remarkably heinous act on a remarkably innocent and helpless victim.

Here's the likely explanation for why they were turned loose without bond instead of with.

Had the judge ordered a $10,000 bond (or 10 percent of that amount in cash) for their release, the women could have spent 10 days in jail before being set free without costing them a dime. Here's why: HB 463 includes a provision that allows inmates to "earn" $100 each day toward their bond. After 10 days, the women would have walked with very few court-ordered restrictions.

But by being releasing them on their own recognizance, the judge has more leeway to impose restrictions, including ordering them to stay the heck away from the 3-year-old.

Then there's the case of Christopher Murphy, a Lawrenceburg man convicted of gunning down a friend during an alcohol-fueled argument that turned deadly five years ago.

Murphy was released from prison in January at nearly the same time HB 463 was signed into law. The man he killed? He's still dead.

Are the above examples indicative of judges and prosecutors who have gone stark raving mad? Absolutely not. They are instead examples of the fallout of a bill designed to save incarceration costs but instead places back on the streets those who normally, and probably should be, behind bars.

Are schools starving hungry students?

Kids' stomachs are grumbling, and so are critics of the new national nutritional standards for school lunch.

Although the new guidelines for healthier meals have been officially in place through the Healthy, Hunger-Free Kids Act of 2010 since the beginning of the school year, criticism flared anew last month about the new caloric limits for lunches.

High school students from Kansas complained about their apparent hunger through a medium sure to spread their message virally — YouTube.

As of press time, the "We Are Hungry" YouTube clip received almost a million hits, showing students slumped over and clutching their stomachs.

But are our kids, here in Anderson County, really getting enough to eat?

Anderson County Food Service Director Marsha Rogers said new standards include not only calorie limits, but also mandates like two servings of whole wheat bread servings per week and two servings each of red and/or orange vegetables and dark leafy greens.

Calorie limits for lunch for elementary students are 550-650 calories; middle school students can consume 600-700 calories; and high school students can eat 750-850 calories.

Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

To put it into perspective: one Big Mac from McDonald's (a restaurant that is arguably not known for low-calorie foods, but is frequently used as a quick and easy dinner option) is 550 calories.

So far, one has complained about the new lunches, Rogers said. But she and other food directors have a few criticisms of their own.

Nutrition is important to Rogers, but she said many food service directors across the state are fighting the federal calorie maximums for school lunches.

Every student's metabolism is different, Rogers said; the 300-pound football player is going to need more fuel than the 90-pound chorus girl.

"Industry has got to reformulate a lot of things for us in order to meet these new standards," she said.

Extra food is not off-limits to Anderson County students; hungry kids can still purchase second helpings a la carte, Rogers said, and everyone is welcome to extra servings of fruits and vegetables.

But extra servings are being discouraged and are not accounted for in the federally reimbursable meals, Rogers said, which may be a good thing for students.

"That's teaching them to make wise choices," she said.

Schools only have access to students' diets for 340 meals out of the year, Rogers said, and

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Public officials have duty to represent

To the editor:

Two years ago, my husband turned 65 and registered for Medicare. In November of the same year, he had hip surgery.

After the surgery, we received a $61,000 doctors' bill. After contacting Medicare, I found they had made a mistake on the effective date. After weeks of pleading with Social Security to correct the error, I turned to our congressmen and senators.

On Aug. 22, 2010, I wrote letters to representatives. Ben Chandler called on Aug. 24 asking how he could help. After sharing our situation, he promised to get it resolved. Two days later, Chandler's office informed me the error had been corrected. I didn't receive a call from our senators for two more weeks.

When the day is done, our representatives should represent and help us when we ask. Ben Chandler responded expeditiously. I appreciate when people keep their promises, don't you?

Vote to rescue America next month

To the editor:

In the early seventies, our old incumbents in Congress and OPEC limited oil production in American. That deal planted the seeds of the latest anti-American demonstrations in the Middle East.

Where was the harm? OPEC would supply America with cheaper oil, our old incumbents would make money, OPEC would make money, gasoline would be cheaper, and environmentalists would rejoice. It was a win-win for everybody but those nasty American oil companies with their overpriced oil and outrageously high 40-cents-per-gallon gasoline.

The win-win lasted just long enough for America to become addicted to OPEC oil. U.S. meddling in the Middle East and long lines of cars waiting for gasoline were the first signs of the heinous rip-off to come.

Meanwhile, our old incumbents declared OPEC oil a national interest, never mind that America had and still has more oil reserves than all the OPEC nations combined. That declaration headed the price of gasoline upward and it has not stopped climbing to this day.

Sadly, the new name for oil added the greatest increase to the per-gallon-cost of gasoline, which began its upward climb when an ambitious dictator, Saddam Hussein, threatened America's national interest, and that increase is still climbing to this day.

To date, 6,628 Americans killed, not counting the four brutal killings in Benghazi, 50,644 wounded, 3.7 trillion borrowed dollars wasted, unquantifiable flag-burning, shoe-throwing hatred created, and no end in sight; only a continuation of dishonest stupidity from our old incumbents who have been repeatedly permitted by the electorate to demonstrate an ancient truth on Capitol Hill nonstop. For centuries, sages have warned humankind that there is no ethically motivated end to unfettered greed. Enough is never enough.

Just ask T. Boone Pickens. A week ago, he told a reporter that he had spent $100 million promoting his plan for natural gas, which, along with the development of our oil reserves, would eliminate our so-called national interest in the Middle East and create 600,000 good-paying jobs, not to mention the Keystone XL pipeline.

Pickens failed to convince Congress that his infinitely sensible plan had merit. His failure illustrated the root cause of the anti-America demonstrations and why the stupidity will continue on Capitol Hill. He is a billionaire, but his checkbook was not big enough to compete with OPEC partnered with our old incumbents.

His failure and reason compel one to believe that a representative from OPEC sat in a back room somewhere and looked across the table at our old incumbents with his checkbook in hand and said, "Natural gas will take a substantial bite out of our profit picture. How much will it take to make that Pickens nonsense go away?"

Only one congregation on earth has sufficient power to tell that OPEC representative where he should put his checkbook and hold our corrupt politicians accountable: the American electorate.

Voters, you would be well advised to cast votes in November that do not contain liberal-media bias and other relative pettiness. It may be your last best chance to rescue America.

Vote for Johnson-Gray ticket this November

To the editor:

My choice for president/vice president in 2012 will be Governor Gary Johnson and Judge Jim Gray.

To many they may be a "third party choice," a vote for or against the Democrat incumbents or the Republican challengers or even a wasted vote. To me, Gov. Johnson

Learn the pros and cons of ATV safety

ATV safety was the subject of my display at General Cable's Health and Safety program a few weeks ago.

I'm concerned about improper use and deaths associated with ATV's.

In 2004 one of my daughter's friends was killed in an ATV accident in Grayson County. He was not riding safely and he was not wearing any protective equipment.

When properly used and adequate supervision is provided for younger riders, ATV's can be a fun part of family activities and for many, a necessary part of work on a farm. I want to address the concerns that arise when ATV's are not used properly and there is no supervision of youth.

The most recent Kentucky statistics from ATVSafety.gov include 122 reported deaths from ATV accidents in the period of 2007-2010.

Joan Martin
Guest columnist

12 may operate an ATV over 70 CC in engine size. No one under age 16 can operate an ATV over 99 cc in engine size. No one under 16 can operate an ATV without direct parental supervision.

ATV use on public roads or highways is prohibited, except to cross these roads or for agricultural use.

Exceptions for the above regulations include a person using an ATV on a two lane public highway is permitted if the operator is engaged in farm, or agricultural related activities, construction, road maintenance or snow removal. Furthermore, government entities may designate segments of public highways under its jurisdiction for the legal use of ATVs. A person who does legally operate an ATV on public roads under these exceptions must have a valid operator's license. The ATV must have at least one headlight and two taillights which must be illuminated at all times when the vehicle is in operation. Finally ATVs operating under these regulations may only operate in daylight hours except when engaged in snow removal or emergency road maintenance.

Now that all the exceptions have been listed, please read about how to operate an ATV safely and enjoy recreational opportunities.

- Follow the age requirements posted on each ATV.
- Always wear protective equipment such as helmet, goggles or face shield, gloves and boots. Never ride bare footed or in sandals or flip flops.
- Do not allow youth to drive at excessive speeds or perform stunts.
- Follow one seat, one rider rule. No passengers.
- Avoid riding in adverse weather conditions, insufficient light or hazardous terrain.
- Follow all pre-ride safety inspections before each ride.

- Learn and practice the following maneuvers safely: Starting and stopping, quick turns, hill riding, emergency stopping, swerving and riding over obstacles.
- Never ride under the influence of alcohol or other drugs including OTC or prescription drugs that may impair your ability to ride.

Take an ATV safety course from the ATV Safety Institute. The closest location is in Harrodsburg. Courses are scheduled for adults (age 16 and older) and teens (age 12-15.) The website lists a course available for the young child ages 6-11.

Practice safety before you ride by inspecting the ATV, matching rider to appropriate size ATV and wearing protective equipment. Ride safely by following all rules and practice maneuvers.

Fruit trees need winterizing to ensure future harvest

As we fall through the days of October, I'm already thinking of warmer weather. Thankfully, St. Luke's Little Summer is coming up next week and I'm hopeful for more sunshine than frost. The other Indian Summer will occur between Nov. 11 and the 20th. I'll take all the warmth that I can get. I still have lots of outdoor chores to do.

Cheryl Steenerson
Columnist

Cleaning all my seed trays is tops on the list. I put it off all summer for a variety of reasons and then think up more until I absolutely, positively have to do it. If I had a big tank to dunk them all I probably would do it earlier. But I use a brush, hose and a bucket of soapy water to clean all those little squares and then I use diluted beach water (10 parts water to one part bleach) to disinfect them. Finally, they have to dry and then I have to stack and store them for next season. See why I delay? A warm, sunny day will make it a much more pleasant task.

I do still have the pleasant task of picking tomatoes daily. I imagine that if we get another frost between the time I write this and the time you read this, that they will be picked clean. I'm not as motivated to save two boxes of green tomatoes as I have in past years. I got diagnosed with a little case of acid reflux this year, so

I've had to cut back my tomato consumption big time. I usually wrap each tomato in newspaper and then place them in a cardboard box. I keep them in a cool room and wait for them to ripen slowly. Sadly, I think I'll be giving most of them away before Christmas this year.

My grapevines drive me nuts this time of year because they're pretty ugly about now. I just had to plant then next to the drive. We can't prune grapes until after the coldest winter weather has past. All I can do now is clean up any old fruit and renew the mulch.

My baby orchard needs some work, like weeding and mulching. I'm looking forward to watching how my hardy kiwi does through the winter. My five little plants should really take off next year. My fruit trees are less than healthy, since that spring frost hit them hard. So I'm going to be very diligent to winterize them properly this year. Winterizing fruit trees is important for a healthy harvest.

There are several steps to follow. The first job is to remove all dead leaves and remaining fruit. Then, prune dead or damaged branches and ones that come close to the ground. Spray the tree with an oil-based, organic dormant insecticide to prevent winter infestation. Check with a greenhouse or nursery for some.

Clean the surrounding ground of any leaves or dead fruit. Wrap the trunks of newer fruit trees (up to 2 feet from the ground) with burlap or sheets or blankets and tie them on. You'll need to remove these in the spring. Then, take a pitchfork or spade to loosen the soil around the tree out from the trunk, 15 inches or so. After that, pace off a couple of feet from the trunk and make a circle of short chicken wire fence to keep the critters from munching bark over the winter. Don't worry, we're almost done.

Now you need to find some mulch, like straw or compost, to lay down 3-4 inches deep around the truck. Just fill in between the wire fence and the trunk. Finally, stake your tree, if it is a young one. You don't want to do all this work and then have the little bugger get broken during a winter storm. That's it! Oh wait, I forgot! Sprinkle wood ashes, under the straw or even on the top of the straw, during the winter. It will give the tree a nice boost of potassium for a bigger bounty of fruit next season.

Now, take some time to go leaf peeping! The trees are really starting to turn and we have some gorgeous areas right around us. I'm partial to driving Highway 44 west, since I live out here in the country. The drive home is really getting nice and the trees around Taylorsville Lake are just beginning to shine! If you can get a ride in a boat you'll have views that rival Brown County! Take a day off and soak in some autumn sun. We can all use the Vitamin D! Happy Growing!

ers or even a wasted vote. To me, Gov. Johnson and Judge Gray are, simply, the best team for the job.

Gov. Johnson's plan for our nation's debt is brutal but necessary. Massive federal spending cuts now. Submit a balanced budget now.

People may argue but the facts are that it will work. Just look at New Mexico where Gov. Johnson spent eight years slashing spending and vetoing unnecessary spending legislation. What did the citizens of New Mexico end up with? A billion dollar surplus! Now that is the kind of leadership we need in Washington.

I hear so many people say that they are disappointed with President Obama's leadership over the last four years and that the only way to get him out is to vote for Gov. Romney. That a vote for a "third party" candidate is a waste of a vote because a third party candidate cannot win.

So which came first? The chicken or the egg? You are supporting the Democrat or Republican because you don't want the other side to win and no one else has a chance, but no one else has a chance because you are supporting the Democrat or Republican. Please educate yourselves on the candidates and their parties.

For the record there will be, as of my writing this, 11 candidates on the Kentucky ballot eligible for your vote. Candidates from the Constitution Party, Democratic Party, Green Party and Libertarian Party along with an independent candidate will all be printed on the ballot. There are also six additional candidates eligible for your write-in vote.

Complaining is easy and voting for the "lesser of two evils" is even easier but making an educated choice, even if your candidate seems out numbered, and voting for the candidate that believes in the same issues you do makes more sense.

Check the facts before voting

To the editor:

It is a fact that you cannot run a household or a business or government without a budget. It is a fact that if you do not, you will be either broke, bankrupt or out of business.

What would you do if you had shares in a company and the boss or the president of that company said I am not going to change my way of running this business and continue to spend money without regard to the consequences of going broke.

You would fire that person. You would then hire somebody that would take responsibility to operate in a fiscal responsible manner. If you did not you would be out of business.

This is the decision we are facing in our country in this coming election.

Are we going to continue with the irresponsible spending or are we going to take control of our country and return it to a more solid footing.

Facts: Clinton increased the deficit to 1.2 trillion in 8 years.

Bush increased the deficit to 4.9 trillion in 8 years.

Obama increased the deficit to 3.6 trillion in 3 years

Fact: Obama has increased the debt three times more per year than Bush.

This has to stop.

City council to review new sign ordinance proposal

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

A proposal for a new city sign ordinance — drafted with input from businesses, the Anderson County chamber of commerce and city officials — is scheduled to be back on the table before the city council after more than a year of discussion, according to City Attorney Robert Myles.

Mayor Edwinna Baker asked Myles to update council members at Monday night's meeting on the progress of the sign ordinance, the enforcement of which prompted more than a dozen business owners to voice their concerns before the council in June 2011.

In an Anderson News article from June 2011, critics of the sign ordinance argued that city's enforcement of the ordinance was driving businesses out of the city, and asked for a rewritten sign ordinance that included input from local business owners.

The council excluded Chapter 11 sign ordinance violations from being categorized as civil offenses in July 2011 until new regulations were written, according to Anderson News reports.

Sign ordinance violations are still classified as Class B criminal misdemeanors through the district court, with individuals subject to $250 daily maximum fines if found to be non-compliant.

Myles said about 10-15 meetings have been held regarding a new sign ordinance proposal, and estimated a new sign ordinance would be ready for the planning and zoning commission and city council to review within a month.

"The work between the city and county and business community has been very good," Myles said.

Wild Turkey water tank nears completion

Public Works Director Larry Hazlett announced the new water tank, located near Wild Turkey Distillery, is halfway to completion and its interior should be ready to be sand-blasted and primed. Hazlett said after being painted, the water tank will be sterilized and filled with water by the second week of November, replacing the water tanks on Center Street.

The city blacktopped Joy Street last week, Hazlett said, with a little money to spare from the $166,000 Joy Street grant. The leftover funds will be used to clean debris out of the ditch line; that project is waiting to be bid, Hazlett said.

Sewer rehab to begin next month

The replacement of about 3,000 feet of city sewer slip lining is set to begin the first week or two in November, Hazlett said.

The city approved a $77,100 bid in September to replace about 1,800 feet of slip lining for sewer rehabilitation in the Glenview subdivision, as well as several other locations in the city.

Factory Street added as paving project

Paving projects in the city have been finished with the exception of one additional project, Hazlett said. The city will be paving Factory Street within the next week or two, depending on the weather, he said. Hazlett mentioned the plant should remain open until the end of November, and asked for the council's input on any other paving projects they felt necessary to complete this fall.

City to shut down Main Street for Halloween

Mayor Baker announced the city will be shutting down Main Street from stoplight to stoplight during the city's trick-or-treat hours on Wednesday, Oct. 31 from 5:30-7:30 p.m.

Baker said she is working with the Chamber of Commerce, churches and the DARE program to schedule Halloween activities and concessions during that time.

County attorney earns Citizen Support Award

From staff reports

She's been recognized by her peers as one of the state's top county attorneys, and now she's been recognized as one of its top citizens.

Anderson County Attorney Bobbi Jo Lewis was honored recently by the Kentucky Sheriff's Association by receiving the statewide group's annual Citizen Support Award.

Lewis was nominated by Sheriff Troy Young, who offered a letter of recommendation on her behalf.

In the letter, Young outlines Lewis' contributions to Anderson County, calling her a "very unique county attorney."

"She is a mother, grandmother, community volunteer, college instructor and outstanding member of the law enforcement community," Young wrote.

Young discussed how Lewis takes time to meet individually with officers and deputies, is available day and night for questions and routinely provides updates on new laws.

Young pointed out that Lewis has the third highest DUI conviction rate in Kentucky, and was proactive in battling the rise of synthetic drug abuse by writing and introducing an ordinance that was passed by the fiscal court to ban the drugs from Anderson County.

"This was done several months before the state law took effect, and helped local law enforcement get a jump in the war on synthetic drugs," Young wrote.

Revamping Wooldridge Spur, one rock at a time

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

Horace Lawson is fighting neglect with a retaining wall.

He grips another large field rock in his bare hand and drops it into place on the wall, now standing about two feet tall.

His 8-year-old grandson, Isaiah Black, rides his bike behind him as Lawson works.

Both Lawson and Black walk out to this patch of land between Jenny Lillard Road and Wooldridge Spur nearly every day, cleaning and revamping a portion of Anderson County that previously sat forgotten until Lawson decided to do something about it.

Lawson, 78, has lived at 1039 Wooldridge Spur in Lawrenceburg for more than 40 years.

He's watched the hill between his home and Jenny Lillard Road become choked with weeds; the small family cemetery a few hundred yards down the road lie hidden and overrun with unruly brush and fallen trees.

The Prayer of Jabez, the focus of a Sunday School lesson at Lawson's church, pushed him to take action this year, Lawson said.

"The Lord led me to do it and I've been working on it ever since," he said.

Trouble is, he said, the Prayer of Jabez calls for manual labor. At least, for him.

"I found out if you pray like that, you've got to be ready to work," Lawson said.

Since August the Kroger butcher has been hauling field rock — by truck or sometimes by buckets if it's too muddy for his neighbor Bobby Best to use his backhoe — to build a retaining wall on land between his home and Jenny Lillard Road.

Lawson said he usually spends one to two hours in the morning every day

Horace Lawson and his grandson, Isaiah Black, 8, work on a field rock retaining wall located between Wooldridge Spur and Jenny Lillard Road. They've been working nearly every day to revamp and clean up the area since August.

(even Sundays) before heading to work on the retaining wall, and then a few hours in the afternoon until dark.

A few hundred yards down Wooldridge Spur, Lawson and his grandson have also been clearing out bushes, building a homemade outdoor chapel with recycled wooden benches and a large, tall wooden cross, and erecting makeshift markers in a family cemetery.

Lawson said he likes to recycle items for other uses, like old bed metal head boards to be used as fencing for a future flower bed at the bottom of the chapel's cross.

Some headstones (there are about 18 identifiable graves) are carved with familiar Anderson County names like Thurman, Wooldridge, Price and Wright; Lawson said his wife's side of the family is kin to the Thurmans.

Some of the graves, however, only have small grave markers, so Lawson's been looking for larger field rocks to place as markers in front of them.

Rock is literally the foundation of his home — Lawson said the first house he built himself was constructed completely out of stone — and of his life.

"Every one of those rocks is different," Lawson said, pointing to the foundation of his house as he walked from the cemetery back to the retaining wall project site. "They've got design in them."

Jesus is our rock, Lawson says. On the top of the homemade cross he built in the outdoor chapel, Lawson threaded a square stone over the crucifix. It's to represent the weight of sin, he said.

There's been a lot of weight in transferring field stones from various resources: the cow pasture, local businesses and other places with leftover rock in the county.

"Oh, I don't know. Quite a few," Lawson said of the number of tons he's used. After a pause, he estimated he's hauled about five tons of rock, some by hand in buckets and some with the backhoe provided by Best.

"I've been doing it all my life; I just love working with rock," Lawson said. "Laying blocks, laying bricks, you have to be perfect, almost. Laying rock is different."

His grandson, Isaiah, couldn't put his finger on why he liked to help his grandpa every day.

"All I know is it's fun," he said.

Lawson said he doesn't mind that it's just him, Isaiah and his neighbor helping on the projects, although anyone is welcome to help.

"If more people want to, they can keep it looking good. But like I said, it's hard work," Lawson said as he looked at his grandson and they both laughed. "Like I said, it's a blessing."

Blameshift — whose sound resembles high-energy pop/rock acts like Flyleaf or the Foo Fighters, Mann said — tours for 10 months out of the year in a vegetable oil powered bus.

Taking a break from traveling cross-country to shoot a music video is awesome, she said.

"Just getting to be creative," Mann said of her favorite part of shooting music videos. "We're used to driving all day, performing at night."

In the music video's storyline, Mann walks down Main Street in Lawrenceburg, intrigued by the Ripy House and the strange disappearances of the locals, played by her band mates.

Tim Barbour, Blameshift's lead guitarist, took on the role of the missing letter carrier in one scene.

"There's definitely a lot of work that goes into it that you don't realize," Barbour said of shooting the video. The band will probably film "Secrets" on repeat 25-30 times that day alone, he said.

Despite a minor mishap with a haze machine that set off the smoke alarms and called out Anderson County's firefighters and EMS, King said he's enjoyed his time in Lawrenceburg, having filmed in small towns before.

"It's just much more relaxing, much less hectic," King said.

SEVENTH GRADE 'STAYCATION' ESSAY WRITERS

A staycation you'll never forget

We all know what a vacation is, but do we know what a staycation is? A staycation is somewhere you go in your city/town or nearby your home to save money.

A great staycation location is Anderson County's Wall of Veterans. This honors all the military veterans of Anderson County who have served for the United States military, all branches. You should choose this location for a staycation to proudly salute and thank all those, past and present, who have fought for our freedom. Your visit will be a salute to the veterans' bravery.

Karlee Simmons
Guest columnist

The Veteran's Wall is very educational because you learn about all the veterans who have served the U.S.A. The wall of Military Veterans has at least one hundred flags that represent the number of veterans from Anderson County.

Another reason you should choose to go to the Military Veteran's Wall in Anderson County is because once you get done with your educational staycation, you can have a picnic at the Legion Park which is right beside the wall. You can also enjoy a nature walk around the park and there is exercise equipment that are very fun and enjoyable.

Those are the reasons you should go to the military veteran's wall in Anderson County. It's a very fun location! And free! This location lets you have a fun day alone or with family.

Camp Calvary is the place to be for vacation

With the rising cost of plane tickets and gas, a lot of you haven't been on vacation in a while. Your kids are probably asking you, "Why can't we go on vacation," and you say, "We don't have enough money." Well, money is pretty tight these days and people are on a strict financial budget.

Here is a question for everyone: how many people have heard of a staycation? If not, a staycation is where you don't have to travel very far or spend outrageous amounts of money like you would do on a regular vacation. This is why I wrote this article, to tell you about a great staycation spot for your kids that wouldn't cost a whole lot of money. This place is called Camp Calvary.

Camp Calvary would be a great staycation for kids in the summer. Camp Calvary is a Christian camp in Mackville, which is only about 25 minutes away from Anderson County. The prices vary from $35-$170, and the age categories are kindergarten through twelfth grade. There is also a college week of camp called "Deeper Life" and it is $225. The price of camp includes all your food, which is three meals a day and two canteens, and a camp t-shirt. If you stay at Primary Sleepover or First Chance, which are for grades K-3, you stay one to three nights, but if you stay at any other weeks of camp for older kids, you will stay five nights. Camp Calvary is a very good Christian environment, and kids have a blast there while learning about Jesus. Their mission statement is to "provide a spiritual atmosphere by training campers to be fully equipped as mature Christians. Then, as examples to the world, they will lead the lost to the saving knowledge of Jesus and accept Him as their Lord and Savior."

McCoy Brown
Guest columnist

I think Camp Calvary would be a great place for kids to go in the summer and this is why. I love going to Camp Calvary because I have been going there all my life and I love hanging out with my friends I have made there prior years.

I also love learning about Jesus while having a great time. I think camp is a really good place because if I have a problem they can fix it. The faculty at camp takes really good care of the campers. If I need something, the faculty will be there for me. They also have a really long waterslide going down a hill towards a creek that is really fun to go down. In addition, Vicki Cooper and all the other camp cooks make delicious food. I love going to Camp Calvary so much that I went to four weeks of camp last summer. Without Camp Calvary, summer would just be dull and boring.

I got away from my opinion and interviewed other people on why they love going to Camp Calvary. The first person I interviewed was J.T. Neese. J.T. said, "I love going to Camp Calvary because that is where I have met my best friends. The people I have met there have become my brothers and sisters in my heart. Camp Calvary has also been a place of retreat from the hustle and bustle of everyday life. It's just you, God, and your brothers and sisters." The second person I interviewed was Taylor Sawyer. Taylor said, "I love going to Camp Calvary because I would not be who I am today if it wasn't for Camp Calvary. It has been the biggest spiritual influence in my life. It's where I met my closest friends, the ones I can tell everything to and it's where I decided to get baptized. I love that you can completely get away for a week and spend it with other Christians learning and growing in Jesus, playing crazy fun games and eating delicious food." So you can tell I am not the only person who loves going to camp.

From this article do you think Camp Calvary sounds like a fun place to send your kids for a staycation? If so, here are some things your kids need to bring: Bible, pen, notebook, bed sheets or sleeping bag, pillow, flashlight, comb/brush, camera, jacket, shoes and socks, water shoes, pajamas, spending money, bag for dirty clothes, soap, shampoo, washcloth, towels, toothpaste/brush, and clothes for a week. For people who would like to send their kids to camp but don't have enough money, fill out a scholarship form and they will help you with money issues. For more information here are some ways to contact them.

- Phone: 859-375-4376
- Address: 475 Camp Calvary lane; Mackville, KY 40040
- E-mail: kycampcalvary@gmail.com

P.S. Parents, you can have your kids gone for a week and have some peace around the house! Better yet, they will be at camp having a good time learning about Jesus. It's a win-win situation!

What's a staycation?

Editor's note: The following essays were chosen as the winning entries from Heather Hardin's seventh grade language arts class at Anderson County Middle School. Students were required to write about "staycations," and their peers voted on which article they wanted to submit to The Anderson News.

A staycation is doing something that will relax you, save you money, don't have to stay in a hotel, and something that keeps you active as well.

Two weeks ago Anderson County Middle School seventh graders went to Elkhorn Creek for our field trip/staycation. The purpose of doing this trip was to get us moving, enjoying nature and having fun with our friends. There are a lot of questions I've been hearing from people like: "Where is Elkhorn Creek?" "How far is the creek?" "Is it safe?" Elkhorn creek is in Scott County, Georgetown, Kentucky. On our trip we went three miles up the creek. It's pretty long and tiring, but it's fun. Yes, it's safe, unless you don't use the equipment right.

I think you and your family should go to Elkhorn Creek, because it's fun, active, and it's a staycation close to home. I think the best reason why you and your family should go to Elkhorn Creek is because you will have good quality family time and it keeps everybody active. Another reason why you and your family should go to

Alee Rowland
Guest columnist

Elkhorn Creek is because you get good exercise and you stay cool when you get in the water. When me and my friends got in our canoe, we were soaked before we even got in the water. We also experienced a lot of teamwork on the trip.

We also had some great memories on the canoe trip. When my friends and I got on the canoe, we accidentally ran into a tree which was very funny. It was hard to get used to steering the canoe, but we finally got used to it. When we finished the three miles we got out to swim, and while we were trying to get out we flipped our canoe! The water was cold. But it was hot, so it felt good.

On our way back we had to do another three miles so all together we did six miles. On our way back we caught up with our friends, and because we were talking to them we didn't pay attention to where we were going and we ran over a dead tree. Then we were even further behind, because I dropped my paddle in the water. Then we got even more away because we ran into trees with spiders on them. I screamed and jumped out of the boat, and then threw my paddle in the water. It was awful, but fun and funny also. We finally got back to shore and had lunch.

It was really awesome! I loved it. These are things you and your family will be doing on your staycation at Elkhorn Creek.

Do you know what a staycation is?

With the title above did you think to yourself, "Hey, I don't know what a 'staycation' is?" If you don't, then I will tell you. Hi! My name is Caitlin Hobbs and I am a seventh grader at Anderson County Middle School. A staycation is a vacation in your hometown or state. This means you could go on vacation and not have to fly or drive far away. Have you ever looked for historical sites or museums to visit? Well I have, and you should too!

The staycation I went to was in Bowling Green, Kentucky. It was at the National Corvette Museum. This is a great place to go, even if you don't like cars (like me!). But I ended up loving the trip.

At the museum I learned about Corvettes like how and when they were made. If you are a teacher, it could be an educational trip as well. I got to see many different cars they made and sell.

One reason why I loved that staycation is I had a wonderful time with my family. I know most families are busy, but you can always take a day off just for family time. You will laugh and have fun times just like me. Your family can learn about the history and kinds of Corvettes.

Caitlin Hobbs
Guest columnist

Another reason to go on a staycation to the Corvette museum is you can also visit other places nearby like Chaney's Dairy Barn, The Dinner Train, and Underwater Caves. These places are great choices too! I went to Chaney's a swell as the Lost River Cave. Chaney's has a great selection of homemade ice cream which is made right outside. The underwater Lost River Cave was an experience as well. You swear life jackets and load on the tour boats to go.

You learn about the cave and its history. On your way walking to the cave you also see other historical sites. I would suggest all these staycations.

Thank you for reading my article. I hope if you visit these awesome places you have fun just like me. If these places don't sound interesting, you can always look for other places. So if you're wanting a vacation from those busy days, take a staycation. I promise you won't regret your choice.

*Note: If a Bowling Green staycation appeals to you, you can find out more at visitbgky.com.

A year round celebration at water park

Have you ever wanted to go on vacation without having to spend a lot of money? Well, if this is a question you have been wanting an answer to ... you've come to the right "place"!!

A great place for a "staycation" is Holiday World! Not only does it have an amusement park full of fun roller coasters, it also has an amazing water park! Their rides and slides are great for families up to about 10 people.

Yes, you can of course have more, so you can go separate ways. Just make sure to have a way to keep in touch with each other. They are very family-oriented and have a few lost parents stations so children who may wander off can be reunited with their families/friends.

I went with my family and a friend. We had so much fun we even got sunburned. (So be sure to wear sunblock.) We mainly went to Splashin' Safari (the water park) because it was in the middle of the summer but we did ride on one rollercoaster. And let me tell you, it was the BEST coaster EVER!

It was so much fun I couldn't wipe the smile off my face. But, when the day was over and it was time to go home I was devastated. I wanted to stay there forever and never leave!

You're probably wondering, "What makes this place so great? What are their prices? Can we get special discounts?" Those are all great questions that can be answered. You can go to <http://www.holidayworld.com> and find everything you need to know about Holiday World. If you do not have a computer you can call go-family (1-877-463-2645) or 812-937-4401. There are many opportunities to get great discounts and lower prices.

Along with the great prices, this is a great place to go for a "staycation" because it has roller coasters and water-slides (they have some good pizza too!). The height and weight restrictions vary. For some rides you must be at least 54 inches, but for others you there are no restrictions.

To find out more, see <http://www.holidayworld.com/visit/height-weight-restrictions>. Take my word and spend your next "staycation" at Holiday World for tons of fun! So get up and onto that computer (or give them a call!) and plan your next visit!

Avenstoke blacksmith important to area

THE WAY WE WERE

Compiled by Janie Bowen

J.D. Milton ran a blacksmith shop in Avenstoke in the early 1900s.

After his wife died, he raised two boys and a girl.

One of his sons, Millard Milton, became the postmaster at Avenstoke. The train that traveled through would pick up the mailbag from a hook on a post near the tracks, just like you see in the old westerns.

J.D. Milton's grandson, Millard's son, Curtis Milton, was raised in Avenstoke. He brought in an old ledger a while back that came from his grandfather's blacksmith shop.

The ledger contained his customers and their purchases from 1910 and 1913. There were many names of people in the community that Milton ran on account until they could pay him. Sometimes he would wait all year, until they sold their crops, before he would get paid for his work. Some would pay a little along, not just in money but also in other ways, such as work done for Milton, molasses, wood, strawberries or other things.

Orders would come from businesses in Louisville and surrounding areas for Milton's handiwork.

Milton would make tobacco knives for about 25 cents each, new horseshoes for 20 cents and old horseshoes could be had for 10 cents each. Milton would also build horse-drawn slides for $7 in 1910 or so.

Names listed in the index of the ledger included: Frank Aldridge, Baxter Adkins, Henry Bowler, Ira Browning, Bob Baugh, Widdow Edgar, Esta Edington, Calvin Edington, Fisker Cook, William Cook, Lister Crawford, Bennie Catlett, Rollin Crask, Alvin Crask, Harry Curry, Dale Curry, Melvin Crask, Jack Cox, W.J. Davenport, Louis Davenport, Sterlin Devers, Van Davenport, Pomp? Davenport, Wilber Dawson, Rollie Davenport, James Edmonsens, Johnnie Franklin, Willie Franklin, Rebecca Ann Franklin, Esta Franklin, Ben Franklin, Ben Gross, J.D. Green, Taylor Hammond, Millie Hutt Hammond, Ander Harvey, Measel Harvey, Willie Hill, Ezra Hill, Joseph Hammond, Russell Hill, George Hill, J.W. Hill, Will Hammond, Connie Harvey, Silas Johnson and wife, Ernest Johnson, Henry Johnson, J.W. Long, John Murdock, Omer Moffett, J.H. Moore, Walter Maddox, Charley Maberry, Tom Martin, Otho Noel, Tom Pullium, Willie Pelle, Linsey Peak, Marion Peak, Forrest Perry, Evert Ritter, J.A. Rankin, Joseph Stucker, J. C. Sutherland, Mr. Millie Stucker, Mike Slucher, R.W. Smith, Lum Searcy, Eddie Scrogam, Armp Thurman, Mooh Thurman, Lister Terry, Fount Thacker, Wesley Taylor, Evrett Tinsley, Hubert Tinsley, James Tinsley, J.D. Wilson, Charley Wilson, Sue Wilson, J.D. Wilson, T.H. Wilson, Johnnie Wilson, Willie Wilson, Salem Wingate, Clarence Watts, J.M. Watts, Elbert Watts, Claud Watts, J.T. Watts and Will Young,

Horseshoes were bought on a daily basis. Some interesting entries in the ledger included: New horseshoes for 20 cents each and used ones 10 cents; a single tree, 50 cents. If you don't know what a singletree is, you've never worked horses. A singletree is used to hook one horse to a wagon. You can hook up two horses side by side with a doubletree.

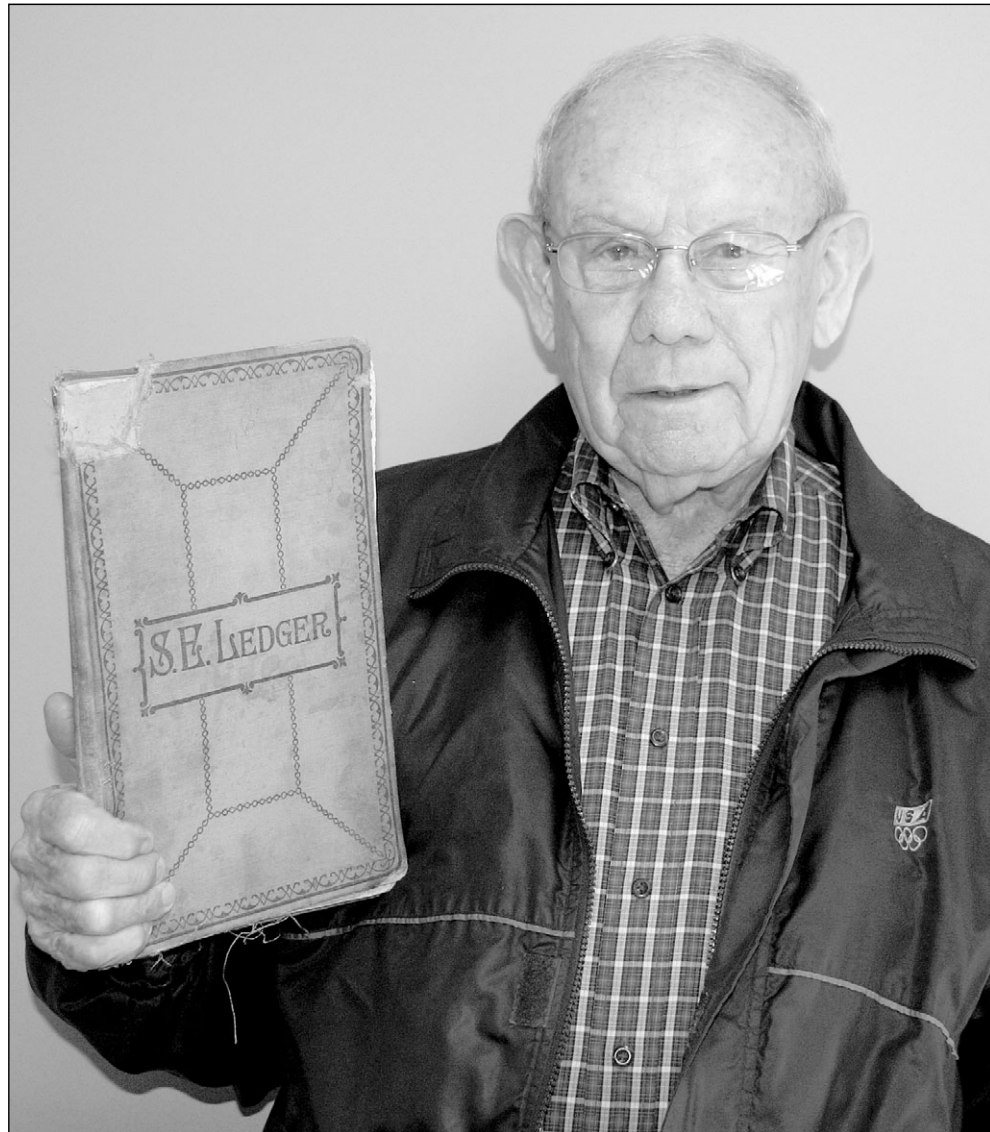

Milton made a plow stirrup for T. H. Wilson for 15 cents and sharpened a coulter plow for 20 cents.

He fixed two buggies for Joseph Hammond for 40 cents, sold him four new horseshoes and toes for $1 and rimmed a buggy wheel for $1.50. He sharpened a hand saw for 20 cents, fixed a ranged door for 15 cents, shrunk five tires for $2.50, welded a hub for a nickel and traded out 75 cents worth of work to him. He received 10 cents for welding an iron bolt.

Hammonds ran a tab from January through December. The entire year's bill minus the 75 cents in traded labor came to $8.95. He had bought several shoes, old and new throughout that time.

Rollen Crask also bought a clevis for 30 cents and got a king bolt fixed for 20 cents.

Van Davenport had a rounder

Curtis Milton, grandson of the owner of Milton's Blacksmith, holds his grandfather's ledger with entries from 1910 through 1913.

plow beam put in for $1.25, a plow point sharpened for 15 cents and bought a clip on a doubletree for 15 cents. He also fixed a beau socket on a buggy for 25 cents and fixed a cutting box for 20 cents in January 1913.

In March 1911, William Cook got three single-trees fixed for 75 cents, plus some stretchers were fixed for 40 cents; fixed one horse plow for $4.50, fixed two horse plows for $4.50, bought a stretcher link for 10 cents; and had some horses shoed. The balance on the horse shoeing was $1.15.

He brought Milton three loads of wood for payment on his bill for a $3 credit.

Russell Hill got some work done on a wagon in March 1911 for $7, plus a singletree for 50 cents and one old shoe. Milton fixed a wagon brake for 10 cents. Later in April, he made a plow bolt for 10 cents and gave Hill a credit of $1.50 for raking weeds. In June, he gave him a $3 credit on his bill for hauling. Later that month he charged him a $1 for shrinking two tires.

Marion Peak bought a tobacco knife in Sept 1911 for 25 cents.

George Hill got a grubbing hoe sharpened for 10 cents in February 1911

In April, Hill got a handsaw sharpened and two hames hooks for a total of 35 cents. In May, Milton fixed a wagon brake for a dime and in June fixed a double shovel plow for 50 cents. In September, Hill bought two toe weights for 75 cents and in October Milton made a corn knife for 15 cents. Hill was given $3 credit in June for hauling.

In April of 1910, Milton made J.W. Smith a plow plate for $1 and in May sharpened a plow for a dime, lathed a coulter for 50 cents and fixed up a wheel for $1.10.

In 1911 he fixed a binder wheel, binder roller and binder lever for a total of 70 cents. He made a brace for a dime and two single-trees for 60 cents. He made a grass board in July for 20 cents. In October, Milton gave Smith $1.22 credit for 11 pounds of meat he had given him. In December he gave him $1.50 credit for 120 feet of lumber he brought him.

Milton trimmed a plow for Wilber Dawson in April 1911 for 15 cents

He rimmed one wheel for $1.50 for Forest Perry in March 1911. He also sold him three spokes for 30 cents and fixed up shafts for 40 cents and put in a single tree for 35 cents.

In May of 1912 he sharpened three plates for 15 cents and in September fixed a fifth wheel for 25 cents.

In March of 1911, Everett Tinsley bought two lap rings for 15 cents and in April had a buggy wheel fixed for $2.10. Later that month he had a buggy wheel fixed for $2.30 and Milton made a doubletree for 65 cents. It cost 30 cents for Milton to fix a wagon.

In July he put a brake on a wagon for $3 and later in the year put in a cross bar for 50 cents.

In March 1911, Salem Wingate bought a singletree and doubletree for 75 cents and it cost him $3.75 to get a plow fixed. He bought three lap rings for 25 cents. Milton fixed a piece for a disk harrow in May for 35 cents.

March 14, 1911, Willie Wilson got a whiffle tree bolt for a dime and had a shaft brace put on for 10 cents. Milton fixed up a buggy in July for 1.10.

Wesley Taylor had handles put on a plow in March 1911 for 50 cents. Milton gave him credit for his bill he owed at the time by taking off 75 cents for a trip to Frankfort he made for him and $2 for hauling manure. He later credited him $1.50 for hauling trash.

Milton made a crank stick for Silas Johns and his wife for a dime in April 1911. In July he rimmed a wheel for $1.50 and shrunk a tire for 50 cents. In Sept. 1912 he put in a wagon tongue for $1.50 and fixed up the buggy for $1.50

He sharpened harrow teeth for J.W. Hill in April 1911 for 20 cents. In February of 1912 he lathed a grubbing hoe and fixed a hillside plow for $2.30.

Milton made a horse hames hook for 10 cents for James Edmonson in May 1911.

In June of that year he fixed up some plows for 15 cents, sharpened two plows for a dime.

In July he put in half a rim and fixed a grass board for 70 cents and in August he put a tongue in a bailer for $1.50. He made a log chain hook for 15 cents.

WEDDING
Phillips-Williams

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Scott Williams

Karla Elaine Phillips of Lexington and Bradley Scott Williams of Lexington were married June 2, 2012, at Chrisman Mill Vineyards. Pastor Joshua Cummins officiated the wedding. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Woodrow Phillips II of Lawrenceburg. The bride's grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Cook, Jr., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Phillips. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Williams of Versailles. The groom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Reynolds and the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams. The bride was given in marriage by her father Woody Phillips. She wore an ivory taffeta Maggie Sottero gown and a gardenia in her hair. She carried a bouquet of pale green roses. The matron of honor was Sarah White of Lawrenceburg, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Carolyn Bedford of Lawrenceburg, friend of the bride; Sarah Sudeth of Lawrenceburg, friend of the bride; Lindsey Pfoff of Jamestown, Ky., friend of the bride; Allison Woolums of Corbin, Ky., friend of the bride; Whitney Williams of Versailles, sister of the groom; and Casey Wieland of Orlando, Fla., friend of the bride. The ringbearer was Parker Lee White, nephew of the bride. The best man was Trey Anderson of Louisville. The groomsmen were Casey Messner, Brandon Smith, Matt Adams, Jordan Barker, Ryan Heim and Danny Olszowy, all of Lexington and all friends of the groom. Ushers were Travis McConathy of Nicholasville, friend of the groom; and Daniel Stallings of Shelbyville, friend of the groom. The bride is a 2007 Anderson County High School graduate and a graduate of Asbury University. She is currently employed as a health and wellness teacher at Stewart Home School. The groom is a 2008 Dunbar High School graduate and a graduate of Asbury University. He is currently employed as a bike and fitness specialist at Dick's Sporting Goods. The reception was held at Chrisman Mill Vineyards, and the honeymoon was in Maui, Hawaii. The couple will reside in Lexington.

Learn from Peter; share God's word

How many times do we deny Christ in the way we live our lives? It's really scary to me how often I fail to acknowledge and live a life centered upon Christ.

What does the Bible tell us about those that deny Christ, and then repent? An important example is Simon Peter.

We all remember how Peter denied Jesus publicly three times on the eve of Jesus' crucifixion.

However, after Peter denied Jesus he wept bitterly, sorrowfully repenting.

We read in Luke 21:15-17 how Jesus dealt with Peter after his

Jess Thompson
Faith columnist

resurrection: "When they had finished eating, Jesus said to Simon Peter, 'Simon son of John, do you love me more than these?'"

'Yes, Lord,' he said, 'you know that I love you.' Jesus said, 'Feed my lambs.'

Again Jesus said, 'Simon son of John, do you love me?' He answered, 'Yes, Lord, you know that I love you.' Jesus said, 'Take care of my sheep.' The third time he said to him, 'Simon son of John, do you love me?' Peter was hurt because Jesus asked him the third time, 'Do you love me?'

He said, 'Lord, you know all things; you know that I love you.' Jesus said, 'Feed my sheep.'

Now, Peter had denied Christ three times and now he affirms him three times. Jesus forgave him and Peter formally committed the rest of his life to service and spreading the word.

Later, we see Peter, empowered by the Spirit and speaking boldly to the Sanhedrin council even though he was beaten and ordered to speak no more in this name.

I think there are many lessons here, but I think it's very important for you and me, who have both denied Christ by the way we have lived, to do as Peter did — repent and feed Jesus' sheep.

We must live lives not only worshiping and following God, but also sharing his divine and holy word with others around us.

after the service for a potluck and fellowship meal.

Bro. Terry Cooper from Ninevah Christian Church will be the evangelist and services begin each night at 7 p.m. with the following groups bringing special music: Sunday night, Hilltop Trio; Monday night, Good Ol' Boys; Tuesday night, Hedges Family; Wednesday night, Daughters of the King. Preaching will begin around 7:30 p.m.

The church is located on the left about eight miles down Highway 44 west from the Walmart intersection. "We know it will be a wonderful time of renewal and focus as well as a special time of sharing with our sister churches," event organizers said.

For more information or if individuals would like to request transportation, please contact Larry Armstrong at 502-839-6282, Matt Spaulding at 839-4391 or Chris Akins at 502-330-9342.

"All are welcome to come hear the word of God," event organizers said.

New Hope Baptist in Versailles announces upcoming events

On Oct. 14 New Hope Baptist will start putting together Operation Christmas Child shoeboxes. Shoe box dedication will be Sunday, Nov. 18.

On Wednesday, Oct. 17 the church will be visiting Heritage Hall to take bananas and provide worship and fellowship and will leave the church at 10 a.m.

The youth will be having a "D-Now" on Oct. 19-20. It will start at 6 p.m. and end at 1 p.m. on Oct. 20. Event organizers ask youth to bring $10. The church will have a "Hang Out After Church" from noon to 7 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 21. Youth ranges from 5th grade through 12th. The church is now taking orders for the Thanksgiving Day, "Bountiful Blessings," meal. The meal and delivery is free. The meals will be delivered between 10 a.m. and noon on Thanksgiving Day in Versailles and Lawrenceburg.

If you would like to find out how you can be involved in this ministry by providing food, please call New Hope at 873-1707.

A BIG DIFFERENCE

There is no doubt that there is a BIG difference between science and the theories of men and women who study in the field of science. Theory can be defined as "a belief not yet tested in practices." A theory is not a scientific fact.

Evolutionist have no PROOF for the beginning of life and two thirds of their chain is missing. Some evolutionists have tried to prove their theories with hoax:

1. The Heidelberg man consisted of one jaw.
2. The Java man was put together with a cranial cap, a thigh bone and a few teeth.
3. The Peking man consisted of one tooth.
4. The Piltdown man was proven to be a hoax in 1954.

Evolutionists have failed to show how man has the characteristics he has that no other creature has:

1. Rational thought
2. Morals
3. Conscience
4. Inherently Religious

All of these are marks of personality and prove that man came from a higher power (Eternal Intellect).

Life comes from life is a scientific fact! Where did this life come from? If life was not created by God, then dead matter produced it, and that will NEVER be proved. Evolutionist and THEIR FAITH leaves a lot of unanswered questions!

Veteran designation driver's licenses available

From staff reports

Kentucky veterans are able to obtain driver's licenses imprinted with the newly authorized "veteran" designation, which became available Sept. 24, according to a news release from the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet. Veterans must present a Department of Defense form 214 to verify service when they visit Circuit Court clerk's office. There is also a $20 renewal fee. However, veterans who renewed licenses between July 12, when the law authorizing the veteran designation went into effect, and Sept. 24, when the designation became available, can obtain a replacement without paying the standard $12 fee for a duplicate licenses. That waiver expires Dec. 31. Veterans who have not yet renewed can request the designation at license renewal time for a fee of $20. Veterans who have not yet renewed and who wish to obtain a license with the designation before their renewal date may do so but must pay the $12 fee of a duplicate license.

Friday Night makes the Lights special

This is what it is all about when teenage boys put on shoulder pads and fasten the chin straps. If you don't know that Anderson County is playing football at Franklin County on Friday night, you simply haven't been paying attention. I got the impression that Anderson might have been looking ahead last week at West Jessamine when the Bearcats were treating the football like it was an agitated pole cat. For 24 minutes, it looked like no one wanted to hang on to the ball.

A week before, Anderson coach Mark Peach had expressed his concern about his team having Franklin County on its mind when the calendar said West Jessamine was next. After Anderson escaped with a 41-39 win, several Bearcats admitted it was hard to remain focused on the task at hand with Franklin looming ahead.

Peach knows why.

"They are the best team we have played this season," he said Monday. "They arguably have the best player in the state in (Ryan) Timmons and they have a nice supporting cast to go with him."

And the Flyers are unbeaten at 8-0. Anderson is 6-1. Both teams are 3-0 in Class 5A, District 6 action.

Franklin might have been a little guilty of looking ahead last week, too. The Flyers struggled with a Woodford County team that Anderson defeated much worse than the 21-7 final score would indicate. Inside the fourth quarter last Friday, Woodford tied things at, get this, 55-55.

Eventually Franklin prevailed 76-55. You read that right. 76. To. 55.

Those close to the Bearcat program had not gloating that Franklin had trouble with a team Anderson dominated. "They will be ready for us, you can count on it," they said. If I had a dollar for every time I heard that over the last few weeks, I could buy a gallon of gas.

A year ago, Franklin waxed the Bearcats 56-24 before a standing room only crowd at Anderson's Hollie Warford Stadium. Before the 2011 season, Anderson was considered one of the favorites, if not THE favorite, to advance to the 5A state final. It's the same position Franklin found itself in when practice ended in July.

But like Anderson last year, Franklin has shown some chinks in its armor. While the Flyers seem to score points at will, teams have had success running the ball against Franklin.

Anderson, though, moves the ball much better through the air.

The key, though, is keeping the ball out of Timmons' hands. He lines up as a receiver or in the backfield and the Flyers even have a Wildcat package for him. Going into last week's game with Woodford, Timmons had scored 26 touchdowns on just 52 offensive touches. He'd scored 156 points on the state's most prolific offensive team.

Before the season, Peach said Timmons was the fastest player he'd ever seen. "I still stand by that," he said Monday. "He is the fastest player I have ever seen in person in high school football. ... I guess maybe Craig Yeast, Rocket Ismail or maybe more accurately, Usain Bolt. I have no doubt if he decided to be an Olympic sprinter, he would win the gold."

Junior running back Chris Roberts is also big-time while quarterback Logan Woodside, who transferred from Anderson last year, has committed to Toledo.

Still, the game will be played on the field. The winner will sew up the district championship while the loser will most likely be a two-seed in the state playoffs.

The computer polls say Franklin is a solid favorite, as the Flyers should be. They hold an 11-2 advantage in the all-time series and have so much speed in Timmons that even the best plans to stop him can come up short.

Yet Anderson has shown considerable pluck in going 6-1, much better than most predicted at this time.

And that combination makes this week's edition of Friday Night Lights so special.

Peach justified as Bearcats hold off Colts

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

NICHOLASVILLE - Mark Peach had warned anyone who would listen that a trip to West Jessamine could be as harrowing as a trip down Lexington's Nicholasville Road at rush hour.

Not many listened. At least they didn't until Anderson County had to rally from a 20-0 deficit before taking a 41-39 win in high school football action Friday night.

"I was mortified, then justified," Peach quipped after his team had moved to 6-1 on the season and 3-0 in Class 5A, District 6 action.

Mortified and justified.

Meanwhile, Bearcat fans were mesmerized and energized by Anderson's best Lazarus imitation since overcoming a 27-point deficit at South Oldham on Oct. 15, 2010.

West Jessamine quarterback Ryan Horne had faked beautifully before running 24 yards for a touchdown to put the Colts up 20-0 with 1:59 left in the first half.

Anderson looked like it had been caught in Nicholasville Road's reversible lanes when the traffic pattern changed.

And the Bearcats looked as if they were looking straight ahead at an 18-wheeler. In this case, the truck was junior running back Devin Taylor, who eventually pounded the Bearcats for 324 yards and four touchdowns.

Anderson simply had no answer.

"Devin Taylor is special," Peach said.

"If the University of Kentucky has not considered this young man, I don't know what they would consider. He may be the best running back I have seen since (former Mr. Football and NFL star) Shaun Alexander."

The Bearcats were not helping matters with their own carelessness. Quarterback Zachary Carmichael uncharacteristically threw three interceptions while receiver Ross Cox was stripped of the ball after a catch at his own 37.

To add to the Bearcats' misery, the kickoff return team simply watched West Jessamine cover a free ball on the kickoff following Cody Anderson's

Lady Bearcats will win in district volleyball opener

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

When the stage is the biggest, the little things usually make the difference.

Such was the case in the 30th District Volleyball Tournament semifinals.

Anderson County reached down and found a bit more consistency and meshed it with a new-found resiliency to oust Collins 3-1 (25-17, 17-25, 25-15, 25-22) Monday night.

The Lady Bearcats moved on to face Shelby County in the district championship match Tuesday night after press deadlines. Shelby defeated Spencer County in straight sets in the first match of the tournament, held at Anderson County High School.

The nightcap, featuring a pair of teams that had split two regular-season meetings, more than lived up to its expectations. After two sets, both teams had 42 points. Throughout the match, extended volleys were the rule, not the exception.

Even after Anderson seemed to be finally wresting control late in the fourth game, Collins made a final push that prompted a Lady Bearcat timeout just one point away from victory.

"We told them to take deep breaths," said Anderson assistant coach Bobby Hardin, who was directing the team Monday. "We told the girls to relax and come back out and get this one."

Instead, Collins senior Aaliyah Wells scored on a tip to bring Collins within 24-22 before Anderson finally put it away.

Anderson finally began to pull away late in the fourth set after Wells had delivered a pair of kills to tie things at 13. On the next volley, Anderson's Shelbi Savoie dropped a kill in the middle of the Shelby defense.

Then, Savoie blocked Wells from getting a momentum-changing spike.

"That was really a big play," Hardin said. "Our middles (Savoie and Liberty O'Neal) played extremely well."

Collins coach Abby Buchert agreed. "(Anderson's) middle blockers shut down our senior,"

she said.

Wells played gallantly, delivering a host of powerful hits and soft tips. She and sophomore Michaela Stoudemire were often able to match Savoie and O'Neal up front, but Collins was never able to put together any kind of sustained offense.

Service and passing errors plagued the Titans through the contest.

"Our youth really showed tonight," said Buchert, who had led Collins to the district championship the last two seasons. "We only have three seniors on the team."

Anderson improved to 19-15. Collins bowed out at 11-19.

While Anderson had five seniors in its rotation, one of the newest members of the team, head coach Courtney DeLong, might have brought the difference Monday. One of the best to ever play at Anderson, DeLong returned to her alma mater this fall, emphasizing a mental toughness that refuses to give in, puts bad plays behind and simply finds

Riley advances at state, falls short of goal

Anderson junior already looking to 2013

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Kaitlyn Riley's time at the state high school golf tournament wasn't what she wanted, but it was not bad either.

The Anderson County High School junior shot rounds of 82 and 81 at the tournament, held last Tuesday and Wednesday at the Bowling Green Country Club. While Riley made the first-day cut and finished in a five-way tie for 27th place individually, her goal had been to be in the Top 10 when play ended.

"If I felt I did all right, but I could have done better," Riley said of the 163 score in her third trip to the state. A year ago, she made the cut with an 86, then shot a 91 in the final round.

Riley got off to a slow start on the first day falling as far off as 11-under, but she rebounded to go one-under from the 12th hole on.

"The first 11 holes, I didn't have control of my drive," Riley said. She added that the roughs were very thick and the greens were very fast.

Riley teed off at 7:18 a.m. last Tuesday, then had to wait all night - literally - before knowing for sure if she had advanced.

"Last year, I made it with an 86 and I had an 82," Riley said. "I also knew there would not be a lot of great scores coming in, so I thought I would be at the door."

But a rain delay did not allow all of the golfers to finish before darkness, forcing Riley and her family to wait overnight before knowing for certain.

Yet there was little tossing and turning last Tuesday night.

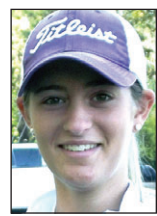

"There were only 12 golfers still on the course when they called it," Riley said. "We had been looking at the scores and even if all 12 of those golfers had beaten me, I still would have made it."

Riley had some uncharacteristic problems early as she fell to 11-under.

"I wouldn't necessarily say it was nerves," she said. "I just feel I could play better."

She did not complete her practice round, making only four holes before heavy rain forced her off the course.

WATCH IT FLY

Kevin Harris of Lawrenceburg watches his putt at the elevated No. 9 basket at the Anderson County Community Park course during the afternoon round of the Autumn Classic. Harris tied for third place in the advanced masters division.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Disc golfers host Autumn Classic

The Lawrenceburg Disc Golf Association hosted the third annual Autumn Classic Disc Golf Tournament on Sept. 29. A field of 50 players from 20 cities and ranging in age from 11 to 65, participated in the 36-hole event. The tournament was played on the courses at Anderson County Community Park and Lawrenceburg City Park.

Two divisions (advanced and advanced masters) had to have sudden-death playoff holes in order to resolve first place ties. In a press release, tournament organizers said this was the second consecutive year that the field size was 50 or above.

Players were grouped into six divisions and each division competed for overall low score and also a closest-to-the-basket prize. The tournament also conducted an Ace Pool for anyone who hit a hole in one during either one of their rounds of golf. No aces were thrown during the event so a post-tournament throw-off determined a winner. Michael Martin of Lawrenceburg won the ace pool throw-off. Winners of each of the divisions were as follows: Women's division - Mary Ellen Stratton of Lawrenceburg; Junior division - Joshua Wu of Lexington; Recreational division - Garrett Wilburn of Lexington; Intermediate division - Matthew Kerr of Lexington; Advanced division - Eric Kopser of Lexington; Advanced Masters division - Warren Foy of Lexington.

Closest-to-the-basket winners were as follows: Women - Stratton; Junior - Wu; Recreational - Matthew Pinkston of Springfield; Intermediate - Kerr; Advanced - Kopser; Advanced masters - Jon Winfrey of Lawrenceburg. Complete tournament results and pictures can be viewed at the LDGA website: <http://ldga.weebly.com> and click on the Autumn Classic photos and results link.

Disc golfers to host Beware the Bogeyman tourney

The Lawrenceburg Disc Golf Association is hosting the third annual Beware the Bogeyman Disc Golf Glow Tournament on Saturday, Oct. 27. The 18-hole tournament will be held at the Lawrenceburg City Park disc golf course. Player sign-ins will begin at 8:00 pm with play starting at 9:00 pm.

In a glow tournament, players can either throw a 'glow in the dark' disc or they can tape mini glowsticks to their regular discs. Entry fee for the tournament is $15. Details and registration can be found at the LDGA website: <http://ldga.weebly.com>.

9-yard touchdown run that had put the Colts up 13-0. Three plays later, Horne scored. "That is a great question," Peach replied when asked if his team was into the contest mentally. "I thought we had a fantastic week of practice. I thought we had focus and worked. I thought that tonight, we just had some uncharacteristic mistakes on our part."

"It was pretty frustrating, but we had to bounce back," said Carmichael. But it sure seemed the Bearcats might have had one eye on this week's game at Franklin County.

Somehow Anderson came back. It took only four plays and 46 seconds for the Bearcats to get a quick touchdown before halftime. Carmichael hit Cox for a 7-yard score that turned out to be much more than points on the board.

It was simply life. Life after having one foot in the upset grave.

"We had a timeout right before we started that sequence and I told the guys to relax," Peach said. "We can score here and get the ball back to start the second half and we score then, we are back in the game."

It took the Bearcats less than 8 minutes to go in front.

Anderson used guile and a lethal passing attack that featured Carmichael and Cox hooking up 10 times for 221 yards and four touchdowns. Cox's 10 catches equaled a school record set by Eric McKee in 2002 and matched by Granville Hayes two weeks ago. Carmichael hit on 21-of-28 passes overall for 373 yards. Hayes caught 8 of Carmichael's throws for 103 yards. "The coaches said we just needed to keep fighting and keep going on," junior linebacker Tristan Ashburn said of the Anderson coaches' half-time speeches.

"He said we were still in it," Carmichael said. "He said we are going to come out and score and that is what we did. He was upset about the turnovers, but said we needed to shake it off."

"We didn't go crazy at halftime," Peach added. "The coaches made their adjustments....I am so proud of the kids. They executed what we asked and gave themselves a chance to win the game."

Ashburn provided the quick spark, taking a squib kickoff to start the second half and returning it 21 yards to the West Jessamine 35. Three plays later, Carmichael scampered 5 yards for a score to make it 20-14.

"That kickoff return was huge," Peach said. "It gave us momentum to start the second half. Tristan is playing at a very high level right now."

Taylor responded by racing 46 yards for another score, but the Colts mishandled the hold on the extra point. It would prove to be a big point.

The Bearcats needed one play - a 68-yard pass from Carmichael to Cox - to get back within 26-21.

Then after forcing a punt, the Bearcats put together one of their most impressive drives of the season, moving 88 yards in eight plays to go ahead. Carmichael did the honors again from 6 yards, but he had big completions to Austin Hall (for 25 yards) and Cox (for 30) during the drive.

Anderson went for two points but failed.

Four plays later, on a fourth-and-2, West Jessamine went for it, but Horne never got a good handle on the snap with Lucas Durr falling on the loose ball.

It took Anderson just three plays to go 34 yards for the score. Carmichael hit Cox again, this time from 23 yards. Joe Rose, who hit on all five of his extra point attempts, made it 34-26.

Taylor answered again, this time from 43 yards, to pull his team within 34-32 with 1:24 to go in the third quarter. But when Horne tried to run in the conversion, Ashburn again came up with the big play, nailing the Colt quarterback well short of the goal line.

It was that kind of night for the Bearcats. Different people coming through at different times.

Said Peach, "I told the guys, 'When adversity strikes, it is easy to start finger-pointing. If we want to start finger-pointing about mistakes, let's line everybody up alphabetically or numerically, because everybody had a hand in this.'"

After Cox and Taylor traded scores - again - the Bearcats were clinging to a 41-39 lead with 2:53 left. They could not muster a first down for the first time since the opening drive, but with West Jessamine facing fourth-and-5, the Colts only got four yards.

According to the Anderson coaching staff, it was Zach Kearns who read a reverse and turned Robby Irgang inside. Landon Searcy made the hit with Crockett Cosby and Moffitt finishing him off. However, the play-by-play sheet correctly read simply "Team."

"The thing is, we found a way to win," Peach said. "Football can be a crazy game. Last week, it was more of a defensive struggle with the score at 21-7. Tonight it was 41-39. You just have to find a way to win these games."

Peyton wins world championship

Middle school archers place third in World Tournament

From staff reports

Anderson County High School sophomore Cameron Peyton won the overall individual honors at the National Archery in the Schools Program World Tournament, held last week in Orlando, Fla.

Peyton shot a 298 out of a possible 300 during the tournament. Peyton connected on 28 tens out of 30 shots during the tournament. Peyton outlasted Bradley Long, the runner-up from Caudill Middle School, of Richmond, Ky., by one shot.

The Anderson County Middle School archery team placed third in the tournament. The team was also awarded the NASP Spirit Award.

Anderson finished with a score of 3,328 and 160 "tens" or bullseyes. The Mustangs placed behind a pair of Kentucky schools, Caudill Middle School and Henderson North Middle School.

The Anderson County High School team placed sixth out of 16 teams with a 3,269 score. Trigg County High School, from Cadiz, won the high school division.

In the elementary school division, the Anderson County Middle School team, made up of sixth-graders, placed fifth with a score of 3,156. The team from Emma B. Ward Elementary School placed 14th with a total of 2,898. Foley Intermediate School, from Alabama, won the division with a 3,298 score. The elementary division drew 15 teams.

No other information was available at press time.

tual state individual champ Anna Hack, from Calloway County, she has beaten several players who finished in the Top 10.

"That was my goal for this year. It is my goal for next year now."

Riley's father, Mike Riley, said he has no idea of how many rounds of golf Kaitlyn has played since late winter. But he said he daughter will be taking a short break before heading back to the greens.

Kaitlyn says her schedule is open at this point and she is not sure exactly what tournaments she will be playing in the off-season.

But she knows she wants to be in next year's Top 10. "I am going to be practicing and playing a lot," she said with a smile.

ways to win.

DeLong, who had been feeling a bit under the weather in the days leading up to the tournament, turned the coaching duties over to Hardin Monday. She sat on the bench, deferring to her assistant, but the impact was clear. The old Anderson, which often folded at crunch time, simply refused to allow its season to end. It was a passion that makes the difference when all is on the line.

"Anderson County has had it all season, but we have had to dig for it," Buchert said.

"Courtney brought that to the team," Hardin said. "The girls came out and executed like we practiced."

While the teams played on almost even terms, that passion shown brightest when the final outcome was in sight.

"Collins is a good team," Hardin said. "We were just able to come out on top tonight."

Regional tournament to open Monday

The Eighth Region tournament will open Monday at the home of the winner of Tuesday's Shelby County - Anderson County match.

Cann's hat trick sends Lady Bearcats into district final

Anderson to play surprising Spencer for title

By Josh Cook
Landmark News Service

SHELBYVILLE - Makenzie Cann's hat trick not only ended a long goal drought for the Anderson County girls' soccer team Monday night, it also sent the Bearcats into the 30th District final.

The junior forward's three goals propelled Anderson County to a 3-0 victory over Shelby County in the district tournament semifinals at Collins. The Bearcats (8-10-3) will face Spencer County (6-12) at 7 p.m. Wednesday night in the district title match.

Spencer upset Collins in the second semi-final match, winning a shootout.

Cann's first career hat trick also ended a five-match streak in which Anderson failed to score a goal.

"They were motivated, they were ready to play," Anderson County coach Jason Earnest said of his team.

The last time the Bearcats had scored a goal in regulation play was when Madeline Wilson scored in a 2-1 loss at Franklin County on Sept. 19.

However Cann, who came into the postseason leading Anderson in goals (10) and assists (six), made sure the Bearcats ended that streak early against the Rockets, whom they beat in a shootout Sept. 28 in Shelbyville.

The standout for the Anderson girls' basketball team tallied in the first two minutes against Shelby County after receiving a feed from junior forward Carrie Isaacs.

"She's a talented athlete," Earnest said. "She has the feel for the game, no matter what the sport is."

The 6-foot Cann added her second with 8:06 to play in the first half when she received a feed from freshman defender Lindsay Chelf in front of the Rockets' goal, kept the Shelby defender Callie Greiner (who is almost a foot shorter than Cann) at bay, then turned, shot and scored.

"It was like I was backing her down [in the post]," Cann said.

Cann capped off her hat trick with her final goal with 2:53 to play after getting loose in front of Shelby's goal, then converting a pass from freshman midfielder Autumn Miller.

"I got good passes," Cann said.

Now the Bearcats will see if they can win the district title. They've already beaten Spencer once this season. Anderson beat the Bears 4-2 Sept. 17 behind two goals from Madeline Wilson and one goal each from Cann and Andrea Melanson.

Anderson County's Tyler Harrod putts during last week's state tournament at Bowling Green.

Short game escapes Harrod at state tourney

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Tyler Harrod's short game is what got him to the state golf tournament. Last Friday, it might have made his trip to Bowling Green a short one.

Harrod shot a 15-over 87 in the opening round of the tournament, held at Bowling Green Country Club, finishing well off the cut.

"I drove the ball well. My short game was what hurt me the most," said Harrod, a junior. "I struggled with chipping and it really didn't help when I lipped out several par putts."

Harrod, who had an outstanding short game in a playoff hole at the regional tournament, triple bogeyed the second hole and never completely recovered.

"I wasn't nervous going in. It was just a bad hole," said Harrod, who was making his first trip to the state tournament. "The atmosphere was different, but I tried not to pay too much attention to that and tried to stay focused on the game. The course was difficult because of the type of rough they had and I wasn't used to that type of grass, which made chipping more difficult for me."

Harrod, however, is already looking forward to next year when he will try to make a return trip, but do so as part of the Bearcat team.

"I think we will be stronger as a team," Harrod said. "I think if we as a team put more time into it during the summer, then I think our chances will be greater at making the state tournament as a team."

Bethlehem tries to put damper on Lady Bearcats' Senior Night

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Bethlehem tried to put a damper on Senior Night for Anderson County girls' soccer, but the weather had already done that last Wednesday.

The teams played to a scoreless tie, the second time they had done that this year. Bethlehem was awarded a victory in the earlier meeting, at the Boyle County Invitational Tournament, when the Bardstown school prevailed in a shootout.

Anderson coach Jason Earnest noted, "160 minutes of play yielded zero goals total for both teams."

Last Wednesday, though, Anderson still had a good night as the Lady Bearcats said goodbye to four seniors who were playing their final regular-season game on the home pitch. Morgan Abner, Brittany Frith, Caitlyn Maillet and Andrea Melanson were recognized for their contributions to the program prior to the game.

Maillet and Frith have missed much of the season with injuries, but were not kept out of the long-standing tradition of seniors starting their final home game. "We had Caitlyn on crutches and Brittany in a knee brace," Earnest said. "Those two started the game, for five seconds, as we kicked the ball out of bounds and got our kids out of the game. I was glad to see them get the opportunity to start one more game."

In a back-and-forth affair, Earnest said the teams matched each other. "Possession was probably very even and it wasn't a pretty game as the field was a little sloppy. They probably had the better chances in the first half, but nothing that was considered a great chance. We didn't either."

Earnest said both teams picked things up a notch after halftime and that his defender, Niki Curtsinger, saved the Lady Bearcats. "Niki did a fantastic job in the second half of really pressuring their forward that was creating their chances, making her take off-balance shots or cutting down her angle," he said.

But Anderson could not convert.

"We played really well and had three or four very good chances and near-misses to win the game, but were either just off on the last pass or unable to connect on a cross to an open player. Our effort was there."

Earnest, however, chose to remember his four seniors. "The four seniors are special and each of them bring something great to our team," he said. "Unfortunately, two of them have been injured throughout their career. They both wanted a great senior year and were playing extremely well this summer before coming down with those knee injuries."

Mercer rolls past Bearcats in finale

Anderson to prepare for district tournament

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

HARRODSBURG - Mercer County showed why it is considered one of Kentucky's top boys' soccer teams when the Titans rolled past Anderson County 4-0 last Wednesday night.

It was the regular-season finale for both teams. Mercer finished at 17-3-1 and had won 12 of its last 13 matches heading into this week's district tournament action. Anderson, which was to have played Shelby County in the first round of the 30th District tourney Tuesday after press time, fell to 9-9-0.

Mercer got two goals from Mason Angel and one each from Matt Gammon and Daniel Steele. Ironically, on a night when Mercer put nine seniors in the starting lineup, Gammon was the only Titan scorer not playing in his final regular-season home match.

"I thought we didn't play as well as we could," Anderson coach Khamisi Campbell said. "We struggled to come to terms with the physical nature of the game, but take nothing away from Mercer. They had some fantastic players."

Anderson's best chance to score came five minutes in when Garrett Pritchert hit the crossbar from about 30 yards out. Anderson had several other chances but the Mercer defense repeatedly thwarted the Bearcat attack and goalie Slade Ransdell never allowed anything else close to the net.

"We had the better of possession and created a couple chances in the first 10 minutes before they subbed out some of their Senior Night starters and put in their actual starters," Campbell said.

Campbell said the Bearcats were not able to penetrate the Mercer defense due to his team not being "calm enough in possession."

Campbell explained that the Bearcats "gave the ball away far too easily. I don't think Mercer did anything special to disturb us. The boys were off technically. We were missing one of our more skillful and intelligent players who happened to get hurt in the (junior varsity) game. We missed his calming presence and work-rate off the ball."

The Bearcats hoped the Mercer game was a good tuneup for district tournament action. If the Bearcats defeated Shelby County on Tuesday, they would likely be playing fifth-ranked Collins in the district championship game.

"Playing Mercer was a good prep for the districts," Campbell said. "We get a chance to go to practice two or three times before our first playoff game and work on correcting some of our technical deficiencies from the Mercer game."

"I am really excited about the district tournament as I feel this group has a great chance to cause an upset or two. The boys had a good regular-season and are very motivated to have some success in the districts."

Are you a do it yourself kind of person?
You can now build your own classified ad from the comfort of home at www.kentuckyclassifiednetwork.com

That's how many Kentuckians, on average, read each copy of a newspaper.

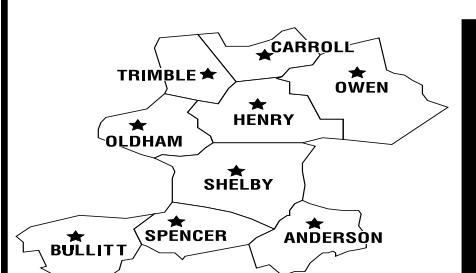

You see, one reads it, then passes it on. Then another reads it and passes it on. And so forth.

So if you're trying to reach Kentuckians, advertise in the newspaper. Pass it on.

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO THE AMENDMENT OF THE ANDERSON COUNTY ZONE ORDINANCE AND MAP ORDINANCE NO. 2012-6 SUMMARY

Be it ordained by the Anderson Fiscal Court, Commonwealth of Kentucky:

SECTION I

The Anderson Fiscal Court has considered the record before the Lawrenceburg/Anderson County, Kentucky Join Planning Commission in its Docket No. 12-003 including the record of the public hearing held by the Planning Commission on July 10, 2012 and the actions and recommendation of the Planning Commission and its staff as set out in the minute so fits July 10, 2012 meeting. The Anderson Fiscal Court concurs in and adopts the reason and findings of the Planning Commission for said zoning change and approves and accepts the recommendations of the Commission in this matter as set out in its minutes.

SECTION II

More specifically, the Anderson Fiscal Court concurs in the findings of the Planning Commission and adopts said findings as its own.

SECTION III

Therefore the Zoning Map of Anderson County, Kentucky is hereby amended as its affects the property described here in from A-1 (Agricultural District) to B-3 (Highway Service Business District). The property so rezoned is owned by Bill and Linda Spears, 1772 Waddy Road, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The subject property, containing 1.110 acres is situated on the west side of Bypass 127, approximately 293' north of the intersection of Bypass 127 and Old US 127, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky.

The Ordinance shall be effective from and after its passage, approval, attestation, and publication as required by law.

Given first reading on the 4th day of September 2012.

Published in The Anderson News on the 19th day of September 2012.

Given second reading, passed, adopted and approved by the Fiscal Court of Anderson County, Kentucky, upon motion of Magistrate David Ruggles, second by Magistrate Jureta Wells at a duly convened meeting thereof held on the 2nd day of October, 2012.
